Rivals: French and English

For centuries, the nations of France and England were bitter rivals. They were rivals during the French and Indian War, as both countries raced to colonize the New World. Ultimately, England proved victorious in the war and unceremoniously expelled France from the New World. France would get its revenge when it helped the Americans defeat England in the Revolutionary War.

Do you have a rival? Do you have a person who you feel you must beat at everything, or, is there someone out there who feels he or she must beat you at everything? Explain below. If not, think of another rivalry from sports or literature and explain it below.

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____